marguerite duras is france's best known and most controversial contemporary woman writer. duras' influence extends from her early novels of the 1950s to her radically innovative experimental autobiographical text of the 1980s. the lover leslie hill's book throws new light on duras' relationship to feminism, psychoanalysis, sexuality, literature, film, politics, and the media. feted by kristeva and laca who claimed her as almost his other self, duras is revealed to be a profoundly transgressive thinker and artist. it will be a must for all concerned with contemporary writing, writing by women, recent european cinema, film, and literature.

careful textual analysis shows the particular fragile nature of this engagement as well as the intricate textures of duras's work this leads to a striking new model of the relation between the literary text and the ethical life of its readers which will be of importance not only to specialists in french studies but to all those interested in ethical criticism and modern literary studies book jacket if as we believe the history of languages is the history of the construction of an ideal artefact that permits a specific interpretation of the linguistic reality and helps to approve and assimilate a certain zone of diversity enabling the accumulation of collective historical knowledge and making us identify it with a social community and a territory then it must be agreed that languages are extremely complex entities the new linguistic diversity that cultural globalisation and recent population movements have installed in most traditional linguistic territories has probably put the ideology of the national language into a state of crisis and as a consequence has made the ancient intrinsic diversity of all languages visible at least to the extent that this is still possible nowadays then the old linguistic diversity of dialects of parlances of local lexicons and the cultural forms that are reflected in these of varieties and previously unsuccessful linguistic entities has been given a new opportunity in a world where the cohesion of societies and the welfare of citizens must be guaranteed using all available means looked at this way the intricacy of languages may even open up an opportunity for local economic and social development this comprehensive historical study of french films made between 1930 and 1956 before during and after the second world war homes in on cinematic representations of gender relations the cinematic enfant terrible is a groundbreaking study of rule breakers in french cinema the book approaches the concept of the enfant terrible in the literal sense of the term young people labelled terrible awful by the adult generation it explores a rich cinematic tradition from jean vigo's zéro de conduite 1933 and françois truffaut's les quatre cents coups 1959 to catherine breillat's 36 fillette 1988 and ladj ly's les misérables 2019 the book encompasses the cinematic enfants terribles across age groups and genders addressing the differences between unruly boys and rebellious teenage girls the early post war focus on juvenile delinquency and sexual provocations diversifies into filles fatales and angry girls but also precarious boys and parents terribles the book charts the evolution of the enfant terrible concept from a negative label to a sympathetically viewed figure of anti authoritarian resistance reflecting the changing position of children within the family in post war france the films address the ethical paradox of democratic upbringing the dilemma of raising children to become obedient individuals with a mind of their own the asymmetrical relationship between children and parents is seen as a tacit family contract that highlights the importance of an intergenerational perspective for the understanding of generational conflicts rebellious children and teenagers on screen are seen in the light of wider social transformations the book clarifies the interplay between individual protests and cultural currents such as existentialism feminism and ethnic conflicts this book will be of interest to scholars and students of french culture and cinema childhood and youth studies gender studies and cultural studies
